United States pauses arms shipment to Israel in the face of the threat of invasion of Rafah

The administration of Joe Biden has halted the shipment of arms to Israel last week in opposition to the alleged movements of the Israelis to invade the Gaza city of Rafah, according to a high-ranking official of the administration.

Biden has attempted to prevent a large-scale assault by the Israelis on Rafah, where thousands of Palestinians have sought refuge from the fighting in other parts of Gaza.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said that as the Israeli leaders seemed to be moving closer to a decision on an incursion into Rafah, "we began to carefully review the proposed shipments of certain arms to Israel that could be used in Rafah" starting in April.

Arms detained	Quantity
2,000 lb bombs	1,800
500 lb bombs	1,700

"As a result of that review, we have halted the shipment of arms last week. It consists of 1,800 2,000 lb bombs and 1,700 500 lb bombs", said the official, according to Reuters. The Associated Press and Agence France-Presse reported similar comments from a high-ranking official of the EE. UU.

"We are focusing especially on the final use of the 2,000 lb bombs and the impact they could have in dense urban environments, as we have seen in other parts of Gaza. We have not yet made a final decision on how to proceed with this shipment", said the official.

Four sources told Reuters that the shipments, which have been delayed at least during the past two weeks, involved joint attacks of Boeing, which converts bombs into precision-guided munitions, as well as small bombs of diameter.

A high-ranking Israeli official, who spoke to Reuters on condition of anonymity, did not confirm any specific delay in the supply of arms, but seemed calm: "As the prime minister has said, if we have to fight with our hands, then we will do what we have to do".

The delay occurs at a moment when Washington is publicly exerting pressure on Israel to limit its offensive in Rafah and take measures to avoid civilian casualties.

La Casa Blanca y el Pentágono se negaron a comentar.

Las fuerzas israelíes tomaron el lunes el principal paso fronterizo entre Gaza y Egipto en Rafah, cortando una ruta vital de ayuda en la pequeña región. El ejército israelí llamó el lunes a 100,000 personas en el este de Rafah a evacuar.

Sin abordar si hubo un retraso en los envíos de armas, la secretaria de prensa de la Casa Blanca, Karine Jean-Pierre, reafirmó que el compromiso de Washington con la seguridad de Israel es "insuperable".

Sin embargo, cuando se le preguntó sobre los informes sobre los retrasos en los envíos de armas, agregó: "Dos cosas pueden ser ciertas, en el sentido de tener esas conversaciones, conversaciones difíciles y directas con nuestros contrapartes en Israel ... al garantizar la protección de los ciudadanos ... y obtener ese compromiso".

El Pentágono dijo el lunes que no había una decisión de política para retener armas de Israel, el aliado más cercano de Estados Unidos en Oriente Medio.

Sin embargo, los retrasos parecen ser los primeros desde que la administración de Biden ofreció su pleno apoyo a Israel después del ataque de Hamas del 7 de octubre, que mató a alrededor de 1,200 personas con alrededor de 250 otras secuestradas, de las que se cree que 133 permanecen en cautiverio en Gaza, según las estadísticas israelíes.

La campaña de Israel para destruir a Hamas ha provocado una campaña militar de siete meses que ha matado a un total de 34,789 palestinos, la mayoría de ellos civiles, dijo el Ministerio de Salud de Gaza.

El conflicto también ha dejado a muchos de los 2.3 millones de personas en Gaza al borde de la inanición y ha provocado protestas en los EE. UU. que exigen que las universidades y Biden retiren el apoyo a Israel, incluida la provisión de armamento.
